Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

1. The title has the word 'economic' two times, must be a mistake.
2. Overall grammar needs a lot of correction and improvement.
3. Research methodology is not very clear, specially the criteria based on which the questionnaire survey results were analyzed.
4. The results section is too elaborate, however it does not clearly direct the reader to the final objective of the study. Also, after the results, some discussion is necessary to organize the findings and focus on the more important gist.
5. The conclusion also is not properly organized. The necessity of developing the Economic model should be properly summarized in the previous section before concluding the paper.
6. The whole paper requires modification/rearrangement and the length should be shortened, with more focus on the important parts.
