

Review of: "Italian Position Paper (SIPMO-SICMF) on Medication-Related Osteonecrosis of the Jaw (MRONJ)"

Antonia Sinesi

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The authors of the paper followed a logical reasoning when writing the article. They informed oral health professionals about the current scientific evidence. Provides important information on the management of MRONJ especially primary prevention. When mouthwashes are mentioned, it would be interesting to know if there is scientific evidence on what type of molecule to use as an antiseptic. Reading the article is very discursive and interesting and leaves the oral health professional with a sense of contentment with the subject.