

Review of: "Implementing Task Substitution for Doctors and Nurses as a Key Element of Healthcare Reform"

Adewunmi Oyesakin<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> department of Paediatrics, National Hospital Abuja, Abuja, Nigeria

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Review of the article on Review of: Implementing Task Substitution for Doctors and Nurses as a Key Element of Healthcare Reform

The title – simple and concise. However, it sounded more like a call to action than a consideration

Introduction - was fair, tried to indicate the essence of the article

Objective – was not stated

This article clearly stated the benefits of substituting tasks of doctors and nursing as elements of healthcare reforms without including the possible dangers and demerits. This makes it lopsided and biased.

Conclusion

An outline of all the pros and cons involved in this would give a balanced and holistic view of the proposal for objective consideration