Article: Online learning during the COVID-19 pandemic, lessons learned and what's next?

Author: Hasnan Baber

It is evident that the author has been aware of a large number of studies devoted to the topic under discussion, which speaks for his good knowledge of the issues investigated. I appreciate the theoretical study done by the him.

But, in my opinion, the article is more informative than a research paper.

The lack of description of the methodology makes it difficult to understand the author's idea.

There is a certain delay in publishing the conclusions, which were probably drawn during the pandemic, but which do not sound so relevant today. Perhaps the author could reinterpret them through the prism of the future.

The author would do well to state clearly the purpose of his work.
