Dear Editor,

I would like to express my gratitude for the opportunity to review the insightful article on sexual empowerment among heterosexual black women in Braamfontein, Johannesburg. The significance of the topic is evident, yet there are crucial aspects that require thorough consideration.

Firstly, the research questions and key objectives need to be explicitly outlined to provide readers with a clear understanding of the study's focus. Additionally, detailing the methodology rigor is essential for transparency. Specify whether the sampling method employed was snowball or purposive, as this distinction is critical for readers to grasp the study's design.

Furthermore, attention should be given to ethical considerations to ensure that the study adheres to the highest standards. Updating references, particularly replacing outdated ones, will contribute to the article's academic credibility.

Addressing language errors is pivotal for maintaining the article's professionalism and readability. Lastly, consider refining the article's length by eliminating unnecessary information to enhance its overall conciseness and impact.

These adjustments will not only strengthen the article's scholarly merit but also contribute to its accessibility and relevance.

Sincerely,

Shaista Bibi Jadoon
