The present work on TBLT is quite relevant and it is a good attempt towards understanding the of teachers towards an unconventional method of teaching English language. The results have been analyzed adequately.

There are certain areas of concern in this research paper-

1. The title should be concerned with perception of teachers as that is what this research paper intends to present. Therefore it does not seem to be a "case study"
2. Introduction needs to be concise. Citations are missing in introduction. Introduction needs to be more concise and less descriptive.
3. Discussion is missing altogether. There are some works if not many, on application of TBLT on students from diverse subjects. Citation and cross citations is absent.
4. After results analysis the researchers conclude abruptly. There needs to be a proper discussion, conclusion, limitations and suggestions for implementing TBLT in B.Tech classrooms.
