The article is well written. Below are my comments.

Abstract

Conclusion in the abstract should hint at the implications of the results.

Introduction

What is the prevalence of VI in Ethiopia?

What is the prevalence of VI among welders elsewhere, and what are some of the controversial issues surrounding the topic?

Methods

How was the data collected by the ophthalmic nurses, and what measures were put in place to ensure control for interobserver variability?

Discussion

The first three paragraphs can be merged since they are talking about one idea.

The introduction can be rewritten to explain some of the exciting data captured in the results section.

Conclusion

Draw out the possible implications of the paper for practice and policy.
