The paper is well-written, but the section on methods is lacking. The author should include details on how the articles for the review were searched, screened, and accepted, as well as how the data was retrieved. It would be beneficial to present the results of the review first and then have a separate section to discuss the findings. This presentation style may enhance the understanding of the paper.

Since I am not very knowledgeable in conducting reviews, I recommend seeking assistance from someone with a deeper understanding of the review process. This person can help strengthen the paper and ensure its quality.
