Review of: "The Relationship Between AI Tools and Their Aspects in Higher Education"

Jocelyne Zafitsara

The manuscript has the potential to contribute to knowledge; however, the work itself is very short and not well-detailed, and it requires a lot of work in this regard.

-In the abstract, the authors should give further details about the approach used and findings, as its current description is too general, and point out the originality and implications of the study.

-The literature review needs a revision. The authors should identify more expansive experiences/practices from related studies, including advantages, disadvantages, challenges, and gaps in using these tools.

-The methodology section requires further explanation. Please identify the participants' backgrounds.

-The results section lacks qualitative and quantitative data to support the research and to facilitate readability and understanding.

-The references are too small.
