

Review of: "From transformations to the notion of time"

Germán Barriga-González¹

¹ Universidad Metropolitana de Ciencias de la Educación

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article is presented in detail, seeking to orient the inexperienced reader to the topic, providing a context that facilitates a thorough approach to the manuscript. The article's structure is well-organized, and the narrative significantly facilitates comprehension during reading. Although its length is considerable and can be overwhelming at times, the structure and organization of the document allow for smooth reading progress. In its present form, the article does not require any changes, and indeed, for those who wish to delve deeper into the subject, it is an excellent starting point.