

Review of: "A Case Study on Industry-Institute-Cooperation"

Seema Singh<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Delhi Technological University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I would like to congratulate the author for the sharing case studies pertaining to successfully conducted two World Bank sponsored programmes.

My suggestion may be to bring the write-up under the sphere of a research article.

1. First two lines of the abstract may be correct but ambiguous as objective of establishing an engineering college and the National Institute of Technical Teachers Training and Research (NITTTR) is different. In fact, later was established during the era of planned developed to upgrade quality of faculties at the engineering colleges, beside many other.
2. How these two projects in terms of process or outcome, are different for other projects done by the NITTTR, Chennai or same type of project done by NITTTR, Chennai and its other three siblings.
3. Literature survey is not in the proper format. So in place of research gap, literature survey is just supporting what has been discussed.
4. All factors of SWOT may be common for other three NITTTR also or any other government research organisations.
5. Major 'Take Away' of the study is missing which others also can follow to apply for the projects from the World Bank, to successfully conduct the project.
6. It would be nice if you can add some feedback from the participants of the programmes.