The manuscript is intriguing because it discusses the herbal remedy Bio-Clean II. However, I found the following flaws in it:

1. The test material's formulation is missing, indicating an incompleteness.
2. The use of SI units is underutilized in methodology.
3. Wherever WHO guidelines are mentioned, the authors should seek the most recent versions.
4. Some of the claims are unsubstantiated.

The manuscript can be considered for publication after addressing all of the above-mentioned comments, as well as the recommendations of the other two reviewers.
