The case report provides a well-written analysis of the probable effects of laser application on the oral cavity and the relief of sleep disorders. But I have some comments on it:

1. The impact of laser application on the oral cavity and relief of sleep disorders is not conclusive based on a single case report, and you must revise the conclusion section of your study.
2. There are multiple etiologies and neurological origins for sleep disorders. Does this hypothesis have any influence on which type of sleep disorder occurs?
3. What is your reference for choosing this laser application method for this patient based on the incomplete methodology of this study?
4. You must add a valid ethics approval code for your study.
