

Review of: "Strategic Management In Agriculture"

Concetta Cardillo¹

¹ Council for Agricultural Research and Agricultural Economy Analysis

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Dear Author,

Your article offers interesting insights, and the topic it addresses is important. But, at the moment, the structure with which the paper is presented does not seem to me to respond to a coherent and valid criterion for publication. I believe that, although in terms of content there are some good observations, from a structural point of view it is necessary to reorganize the work. Compared to what is said in the abstract, I expected to find the same structure in the paper in terms of: introduction to the topic, indication of the objectives (actually, this part seems to be enough and quite clear), methodology used, presentation of the results and their implications in terms of policies to be applied, a possible comparison with other similar analyses to highlight any differences or common points, and the final conclusions. I would also suggest including a map of the study area because, if you want to meet an international audience, it would be good to show where Kyrgyzstan is located. Also, please pay attention to some phrases that are repeated.

In general, I'm not saying that the paper is poorly done; there are many good things, but in my opinion, they should be reorganized better, and once this has been done, I would recommend resubmitting the article to the journal. Thank you, and good work.