

Review of: "Implementing Simulation Software to Develop Virtual Experiments in Undergraduate Chemical Engineering Education"

Syed Nasir Alsagoff¹

¹ National Defence University of Malaysia

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This is an interesting topic on the use of virtual experiments in chemical engineering labs. The paper failed to mention the two biggest advantages of using virtual experiments: cost and safety. Cost is reduced because no materials are needed. The paper mentioned that experiments are hazardous to health but didn't expand further on that issue. Virtual experiments will remove all risks inherent in chemical experiments.