The article addresses a topic of significant importance.

The writing has important deficiencies that limited the quality of the results presented and their analysis. These include:

- the writing in English requires revision, including the use of infrequently used words in this language
- the study objective is presented in three different ways in the abstract, the introduction, and the discussion
- the description of the study's methodology does not allow for its reproducibility, including detail of the sample size calculation, description of variables, and criteria to evaluate appropriateness and correctness

- description of the statistical methods
- Refine the titles of figures
- remove the "No" in figure 3
- In the Discussion
- In addition to comparing your data with other published data, it will be important to explain why your findings
- Rewrite the conclusion...look at recommendations
