The topic of the article is very interesting, however, in my opinion, a series of points should be observed.

Ethical considerations are not mentioned.

Have the participants given informed consent to participate in the study?

The entry and exit criteria of the participants are not clear.

Although it was said that the TPB model was used, it was not mentioned in the results or in the questionnaire.

Findings can be written in more depth.

It is possible to compare the gender and age of the participants and determine the significance and use analytical analysis.
