Review of: "Artificial Intelligence and Digital Technologies in the Future Education"

Qilin Yan[1]

1 Jiangxi University of Technology

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper has examined many roles of computers in education and proposed some implications for social robots and teachers in future education. But some backgrounds are still a bit vague, for instance, the problem-solving model of Voskoglou and Buckley is still abstract.

Besides, the abstract' formating is not strict. Some words are combined together.