Thanks for this interesting paper.

First, I think that the term "historical cohort" is not appropriate because you did not follow the patients. The authors just collected the data and focused on the area of study from the hospital records.

Second, I think that the missing gestational age was not considered in the analyses. Authors need to explain the exclusion of the missing cases. Therefore, the total sample may be reduced during the analysis.

Authors may need to rethink the title of the article.

Otherwise, authors well tried to come up with the hospitalization outcomes.

All the best!
