

Review of: "Ancient Houses in Ben Tre City: A Multifaceted Approach to Preserve Artistic Architectural Heritage and Boost Local Tourism"

Yiwen He<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Central South University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper presents preliminary research findings on the preservation and promotion of the wealth of values embedded in the ancient houses in Ben Tre city, and also explores other key technical solutions. This selection of topics and content has scientific value and relevance. In order to better improve the article, the comments are as follows:

- (1) The article can systematically analyse the spatial structure, masonry materials, and architectural art of ancient houses, and then propose targeted conservation strategies based on the results of the above analysis.
- (2) Please add a review of relevant studies on the current status of ancient houses in Ben Tre city.
- (3) Please include in the discussion section an in-depth expansion and analysis of the above conservation options, as the current analysis in the discussion section is too simple.