

Review of: "What Does the Future Hold for China's Private Economy? An Analysis of Sense of Insecurity for Chinese Entrepreneurs in the Private Sector"

Jie Liu¹

¹ Southwest University of Finance and Economics

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper is very interesting. My suggestion is as follows:

Firstly, the insecurity of private entrepreneurs mentioned in the paper actually exists for many state-owned enterprise managers. Even the latter may be more severe. Of course, in other countries, there are more or less similar situations.

The author needs to clarify the particularity of the sense of insecurity among private entrepreneurs in China.

Secondly, the author extensively cites questionnaire feedback, but its objectivity and representativeness are insufficient.

Does the author's questionnaire involve enterprises of all industries, different enterprise sizes, and different ownership structures? In addition, the individual characteristics of entrepreneurs can also affect their sense of security.

Thirdly, the author can argue based on some authoritative papers studying the relationship between government and market.