Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

1. What is new in this proposal?
2. What is your main idea? Make a clear presentation of your novelty.
3. What is the complexity of your model? Make a discussion.
4. The model must be compared to other models.
5. What is the potential application of this idea? Show some results from a real-world experiment.
6. The manuscript is not properly organized. It requires all standard sections of an ideal paper.
7. The structure of the paper is not well written; no motivation or contribution is pointed out.
8. A more structured review of the literature would be more helpful.
9. Concluding Remarks: I cannot recommend the paper for journal publication in its present form.
10. Can you provide some examples that illustrate the novelty and complexity of the model?
11. What are the key differences between this model and other existing models, and how do these differences impact performance and security?
