

Review of: "Encounters with Others: Student Growth through Fieldwork Studies in Rural Areas"

Abhijit Natu<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Bharatiya Kala Prasarini Sabha's College of Architecture (BKPS)

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic of the paper is significant and is of value in contemporary times. The connect with rural areas of urban students will make them aware of the problems and issues of the rural people and also sensitize them to deliver and answer their issues.

The title has word "others" and it needs to be qualified.

There is no methodology section to the paper and one does not know the number of respondents, the mode of interviewing and so on.

The paper has taken qualitative reporting path with narrations, which is fine. But the case selection criteria, context of the cases needs to be elaborated in order to understand the phenomenon at large. One does not know the domain of the students. What is the focus of their FWS.

The concerns mentioned above may be suitably addressed in the paper in order to make it comprehensible for the readers.