

Review of: "Climate Change and Sustainability: A Comparative Case Study"

Mónica Espinosa

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Explaining the methodology used to select the comparison criteria between the two cases is relevant. The use of indicators that support the comparison more objectively could be considered. It is also necessary to support the statements in each criterion with the respective sources of information. The analysis of the results must be complemented by presenting the implications. The conclusion section can be strengthened