

Review of: "Acacia Pycnantha Gum Exudates Recognised As a Traditional Food in Two Countries May Have Economic Potential"

Yahya Al-Awthan¹

¹ University of Tabuk

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The title of the article is attractive, but the order of the review is illogical and does not fit with previous or similar studies. In addition, the study does not contain the chemical composition and pharmacological effects of the gum, nor are there any tables summarizing previous studies in detail. Also, dividing the study into methods, tools, results, and discussion is not appropriate for the type of study that is supposed to be a review. The number of references is also insufficient.