The article proposed an interesting idea that delves into intrapreneurial behavior in the field of educational organization.

My comments for this research are as follows:

- Gender was mentioned to hold a mediating role in the abstract, but the main text refers to gender as a moderator
- The authors need to update the reference to the current research stream
- The focal theories (resource-based theory and McGregor's Theory of X and Y) need to be implemented in discussing hypotheses
- The implications of this research need to be further discussed
