This is an interesting and well thought out study. The findings are of much importance and relevance. The author could mention the significance of weighing both mother and child. What is the hypothesis the study is being done with in mind? Mention this in the beginning stage of the study. Mention objective in point form for the ease of the reader to be able to compare findings with initial objectives.

Recommend to the Health department of BHD to implement a vaccination drive that will be taken to where communities are based, in this case children Ten years and below such as crech and pre-schools.

The study could have been compared to more African countries,even in the Southern parts of Africa .
