

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Glucose Transport Induction

National Cancer Institute

Source

National Cancer Institute. Glucose Transport Induction. NCI Thesaurus. Code C40811.

Glucose Transport Induction consists of the initiation of subcellular or molecular processes directly involved in the physical translocation from one site or compartment to another (typically, extracellular to intracellular) of the simple $C_6H_{12}O_6$ monosaccharide, glucose, that acts as an energy source for cells.