Authors are required to focus on writing style, structure of the paper, execution, and model novelty.

1. Lacking in writing content. In the abstract, authors used "We" multiple times.

2. In the abstract, they just mentioned in which country how many cases come and the death ratio, but they did not mention what technique/model they applied to implement it.

3. Again, in the Materials and Methods section, authors mentioned "In this section, we provide sufficient details to allow readers to replicate our results. :…. what they actually provided.

4. They need to focus on writing quality and typographical errors.
