

Review of: "Factors Influencing Access to Credit for Rural People in Ethiopia"

Donjeta Morina

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The subject of this study is very good and quite targeted. In order to better highlight the factors that affect access to credit for people in rural areas, it would be useful to make a comparison with people in urban areas. Such a thing would express the great difference that might exist in this case.

Another suggestion is to increase the study sample. That is, to include in the study a wider territory.

Also, very important hypotheses could be raised in this case.

Warm regards,

Many successes!

Ph.D. Donjeta Morina, University 'HAXHI ZEKA' Kosovo