

Review of: "The Contradiction of Populism and Judicial Independence (Unraveling Alexander Bickel's Counter-Majoritarian Dilemma in the Context of the Indonesian Constitutional Court)"

Gift Gwindingwe¹

¹ Great Zimbabwe University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I found the article very engaging and contributing to the constitutional debates in many democracies across the globe. The Indonesian case has been dealt with in a manner that allows for generalisability and replication.

However, I found that the methods section needs attention (see comments). Also, the section on populism in Indonesia is misplaced, hence the comment: I find this section misplaced. It cannot fall under findings. Unpacking populism in Indonesia can come after the introduction.