

Review of: "Influence of Institutional Factors on Job Satisfaction among Nurses at a Regional Hospital, Ghana"

Milad Olfat¹

¹ Shahid Rajaei Teacher Training University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper is constrained by a few factors, including a small sample size and its sole concentration on nurses at a Regional Hospital. It is also restricted to a single hospital and does not encompass other healthcare professionals. Furthermore, the study was conducted some time ago, so there may have been new developments since then. Additionally, the paper does not account for other health professionals at the facility to compare differences based on their professional backgrounds.