

Review of: "Aquaponics Unveiled: Efficient Household Farming"

Amit Kumar Singh¹

¹ Narendra Deva University of Agriculture and Technology

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I found this article as a completely descriptive one. It describes, in detail, about the principle, different components and various systems of aquaponics in view of household farming. However, I found that discussion part needs more in depth work. It appears superficial. Some of the major findings, out of some relevant studies, may have been discussed. That would add up to this article. In addition to this, I found that authors didn't cite any of the studies mentioned in the reference list. It is totally non-scientific and must be corrected.