

Review of: "Integrated decision-making model to enhance the employee-oriented built environment in urban green buildings"

Himahansi Galkanda

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This is an interesting study and the paper is well written and structured. The research methodology is very well structured and ideas are clear and the writing is concise and argumentative. The literature review is comprehensive and managed to successfully discuss the importance and the background of the research. Overall the information presented represents valuable information regarding the initiation of developing an employee-oriented built environment in urban office green buildings using decision-making models.