

Review of: "The Consequences of Political and Economic Choices: Exploring Disaster Vulnerability with the Structure, Resource, and Behaviour Change model (SRAB)"

Tianyi Lei

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper focuses on dealing with disaster vulnerability in Vietnam through a case study of Tan Hung commune in Soc Trang province, which is useful and interesting. This paper is with clear structure and rich contents.

It is suggested to point out why the authors choose Tan Hung commune as sample. Besides, the part of conclusion can be extended appropriately relying on case study.