

Review of: "Skin related health issues among health care workers due to utilizing of personal protective equipment during COVID-19 pandemic in Pakistan"

Muawuz Ijaz¹

¹ University of Veterinary & Animal Science

Potential competing interests: The author(s) declared that no potential competing interests exist.

Current study entitled "Skin related health issues among health care workers due to utilizing of personal protective equipment during COVID-19 pandemic in Pakistan" provides an interesting perspective from a healthcare standpoint during the COVID-19 pandemic. However, I recommend its publication after major revision:

- I would like to recommend the author to correct the overall grammatical mistakes throughout the manuscript.
- In keywords, use the words which are not used in the title of the study.
- Authors should decrease the length of first paragraph of the introduction and be specific with the topic.
- Authors should explain why the number of participants are so less, second concern is that majority of the study participants were nurses, which may create biasness in interpretation of results.
- There should be separate section of statistical analysis under materials and methods part.
- The results portion is described well, however, as mentioned earlier correct the overall grammatical mistakes.
- The discussion is poor and need more elaboration of the results with some latest related references.