

Review of: "Attitude towards business activity risk: evidence using logit models for two groups of OECD countries"

Adeshina Adeniyi

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper is an interesting one, especially dealing with the concept of fear of failure in starting a business in a global space. Constructively, I will suggest the following:

The author needs to clearly state the hypotheses of this study. There is only one hypothesis in this study and it does not clearly express how the variables interact with one another.

There is evidence to suggest that the poor conceptualization of fear of failure and suskill affected the formulation of hypotheses for this study. The author should improve the literature section by operationalizing the relationships between these variables.

The use of non-linear logit regression is permissible. However, it would be more appropriate and insightful to use the STATA software to run the analysis. Besides, a multiple level regression may be required to comprehend interactions among variables especially when dealing with panel data of this kind.