

Review of: "Effects of the SARS-CoV-2 Spike protein on in vitro aggregation of alpha synuclein- probable molecular interactions and clinical implications"

Mohammad Valilo

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This manuscript was very interesting and really attracted me. There are only a few points that I think should be corrected:

1. First, the authors must mention the source from which they prepared their materials and samples in the materials and methods section. 2. At the end, before the references, the contribution of the authors should be written. 3. In my opinion, references should not be modified according to the format of the journal. 4. Write what software you used in the statistical methods section.