

Review of: "Assessment of Learner Satisfaction in Secondary School Education"

Silvia Rossini¹

¹ University of Brescia

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Student satisfaction is a key element to academic success. The study of this topic requires a rigorous scientific approach that I struggle to find in the proposed article. For example, I don't think it is possible to statistically analyze qualitative data; it is not clear whether the administration of questionnaires was anonymous and the reason/consequences of the randomized stratified sampling.