

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Female Stress Incontinence

National Cancer Institute

Source

National Cancer Institute. Female Stress Incontinence. NCI Thesaurus. Code C35042.

The involuntary loss of urine in females secondary to insufficient strength of the pelvic floor muscles; this can result from physical changes following pregnancy and childbirth, or as a response to a decrease in estrogen during menopause.