Well-written manuscript. Good introduction, in-line with the manuscript title, stated clearly the aims of the research work. Well-presented data and result interpretation. However, it is good if you can justify the scale ratios of two plastics to sand. State also how many replications of each sample were tested and analysed. Add standard errors for all results (from Fig. 6 to Fig. 12). How much do the percentages differ for the formulated pavement material compared with the existing material? State it in the conclusion.
