Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The theme of this study is extremely relevant for us to reflect on the importance of the leader using a leadership style that has been proven through literature to bring positive results in the workplace. For this, the leader needs to train and be willing to put it into practice in their daily lives. Regarding recommendations for this article, the following comments are provided:

Abstract

- Remove the bibliographic references from the abstract.
- Include descriptors or keywords in the abstract.
- Use the third person to write the text.
- Describe the methodology used and the results.

Introduction, Methodology, Results

- It is important to have an introduction subtitle, describe the study methodology, and the results.

References

- It is important to standardize the writing of references (ABNT, VANCOUVER, APA).
