

Review of: "Weathering changes – livelihood adaptation to weather shocks in rural India by disadvantaged social groups"

A.T. Nzama

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to review this article. In general, the paper is well written and aligns well with the topic, research question and objectives of the study. The findings of the research are also well presented. I have found the paper to be very informative and clearly addresses the issues that are pertinent to societies that are dependent on agriculture at the time when climate change is on the rise. The article has provided interesting discussion on climate change adaptation through migration and house livelihood diversification. The sources used are relevant but some recent ones could have given more weight to the discussion. In conclusion, this is a well written paper.