The manuscript contains interesting and valuable information and research results, however it requires further work and major issues to be solved before publishing.

In the entire manuscript, the same phrases are constantly repeating; it needs to be rephrased, and grammar and English language should be improved.

The abstract is too long, containing too many informations; it needs to be more focused and precise.

The map of the study area should be improved.

Results should be presented in graphs; also, tables should be merged.

The discussion section contains the repetition of the results; it should be avoided and more focused on the real discussion and data comparison.

This manuscript can be accepted after a major revision.
