

Review of: "Factors Affecting the Social Outreach of Microfinance Institutions: Evidence from Ethiopian Microfinance Institutions"

George Asumadu

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper look good and as the author stresses the importance of microfinance institutions in developing countries, however, there is no statistics to back the introduction - globally or at national arena. Since the paper is quantitative, discussion should be supported with the nine hypotheses postulated and inferences should be supported by the literature. Some operational definition of some of the variables should be clear and example is the age of Microfinance Institutions in the model. Well done!