The author presented the manuscript in a well-planned way. The title "Longevity of Electric Vehicle Operations" matches perfectly with the literature and discussion of the paper. However, there are some areas that should be considered. The abstract and introduction parts look good. The literature review section of the manuscript could be more detailed. The technical part also looks good. The conclusion part was written in a more concise way relating to the main scope of this study. Some figures and tables are required essentially to depict the work in a more precise way. Some sophisticated statistical analysis can easily be added here. Some recent studies, recent innovations, and environmental impact can be easily added to this manuscript to make it even better. Overall, it would be a good piece of work if the above-mentioned issues are taken care of.
