This is a very good study with the potential to improve public health practice however, the following corrections are recommended in order to improve the quality of the manuscript before publication:

1. The abstract should be changed to the following format: Background, methods, results and conclusion.
2. The authors have done well to include study site prevalence of the disease however, global and regional statistics about the disease is missing.
3. The authors under the conclusion section only said that the prevalence of the disease was higher instead of documenting the actual prevalence rate as found in the study.
