Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper is well written, with a strong argumentative structure. Even if the idea of connecting the analysis on VR, AR and mixed reality on a side and the evolution of AI on the other, is at the same time inspiring and problematic. It should be discussed in a longer essay, rather than just a paper. References are a little bit too focused on recent publications. For instance, when he cites the postmodern debate there is a huge production behind that concept.
