

Review of: "The Consequences of Political and Economic Choices: Exploring Disaster Vulnerability with the Structure, Resource, and Behaviour Change model (SRAB)"

Desiree Eglee Villalta¹

¹ Universidad Simón Bolívar

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The work is very interesting. From a statistical point of view, by having the collection of a series of variables, it is interesting that the authors could mark other research points that could enrich the study. However, there are certain comments to make:

1. The work seems more like a systematic review.
2. It is not clear why they considered that study area and not another. Any particular interest?
3. Some more detailed descriptions of the population surveyed are recommended. Having collected such valuable information from the study area, it is worth extending the statistical analysis.
4. Table 6 presents a typographical error. E should be placed, not H.
5. Regarding the conclusions, what could be future research works?
6. There are problems when citing the bibliographical references.