After reading the manuscript thoroughly, I really found the paper interesting and informative which could enlighten mothers and caregivers about the prevailing nutritional status of their children below. I would also like to make some points which I reckon could be emphasized.

1. Food should have been categorized on the basis of food groups rather than choosing specific food item .
2. References should be cited appropriately in the Discussion section
3. Abstract needs to be made more well-structured and compelling for its users.

Overall, the research topic selected is pretty much interesting to read on and is a sensational trend these days.

Good Luck to the authors.
